Planners Not Pleased With Day Care Plan

By Susan K. O'Neill

On Tuesday night, a resident who wants to open a day care center for 150 children brought her latest plans before the Planning Board for comments—and was not encouraged by what she heard.

Gwen Hedrick, a kindergarten teacher who hopes to open her center in a building proposed for construction on the old Frontage Road Knights of Columbus parcel, will be applying to the Zoning Board of Appeals for a necessary special permit on April 3. ZBA chairman Wesley Whitney had asked the Planning Board to review the site plan and forward its recommendations to his board before that date.

Attorney Phillip Sullivan, on behalf of land owner Gus Sheehy, presented preliminary plans for a two-story building, which would conform to the setback and dimensional requirements of its Single Residence C zoning. The building would be erected on a one-and-one-half-acre lot, he said, and served by a septic system. Hedrick's operation, Cuddlecare, Inc., would lease the ground floor; the use of the second had not yet been determined, although Sullivan indicated that Sheehy

North Andover Developer To Buy Bowling Building

By Susan K. O'Neill

A North Andover developer disclosed Tuesday that he has signed preliminary sales agreements for Andover Lanes, the 15-lane candlepin alley located at 34 Park St.

"I am purchasing the bowling alley," said Benjamin Osgood, Jr., of Osgood Associates, Inc., North Andover. A preliminary agreement for the sale was reached with owners Peter and Margretta O'Leary "two or three weeks ago," he said. Osgood added that a closing date has not yet been set, but will probably be scheduled for two to three months from now.

The purchase price has not been made public.

"I have no idea at this time what I am going to do with it," said Osgood, adding, "I don't think it'll remain a bowling al-

Memorial Lecture At Temple

David S. Wyman

The David Shack Memorial Lectureship will sponsor an evening with Professor David S. Wyman to discuss his book, "The Abandonment of the Jews: America and the Holocaust, 1941-1945" at Temple Emanuel, 7 Haggetts Pond Road, Andover, on Sunday, April 13, at 7:30 p.m.

The book examines the response of the American people and their government to the Nazi extermination of the Jews during World War II. The narrative moves through three stages opening with the developments that led to the Allied world's realization that a plan of systematic annihilation of the Jews was underway.

The second segment deals with the ensuing struggle by Jewish groups, with some non-Jewish help, to persuade the Roosevelt Administration and Congress to take steps toward rescue. Finally, in January 1944, Roosevelt issued an executive order creating a government rescue agency, the War Refugee Board.

The third part of the book examines the WRB's actions from January 1944 through the end of the war. Its achievements were substantial although handicapped by the small government commitment.

Wyman was born in Weymouth, the grandson of two Protestant ministers. He received degrees from Boston University and Harvard University. He teaches history at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst and has served as chairman of the Judaic Studies program there.

Wyman grew up with the church and its teachings. He struggled with the subject of writing about the Holocaust and believes it wasn't just a Jewish tragedy. Autographed copies of his book will be available for sale.

Hair grows at an average of 1/2" per month or 6" a year.

Septic System Soil Testing Underway

Soil testing for installation of septic systems has begun, according to Director of Public Health Everett F. Penney. The Board of Health requires two soil tests before it will issue a septic system permit and building permit.

The soil tests measure the maximum high groundwater elevation (deep hole tests) and the porosity of the soil (percolation tests) in areas where subsurface sewage disposal (septic) systems would be installed, Penney explains.

Deep hole tests are conducted during the months of March and April only. Percolation tests may be run at any time, except during December, January, February and March. Appointments for the tests can be made by calling the health department. Penney recommends that appointments be made early.

"We've been witnessing about 250 to 300 lots tested each of the past two years and we expect the scheduling to be tight again this year," the health director says. "Many individuals and contractors wait too long to book these tests and find themselves unable to get building permits because they have no soil test results."

Director Seminar Speaker

Everett F. Penney, Jr., director of public health for the Town of Andover and a registered pharmacist, will present a lecture on laxatives and antacids on Tuesday, April 1, at the senior center from 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m. The presentation is part of a continuing seminar series entitled "Let's Take All Our Medicines Seriously."

"Better health through closer communication is a goal of the series," according to Penney. "Our objective is to create an awareness amongst the public and seniors in particular that potential exist for serious drug side effects, interaction and abuse when over-the-counter medicines and prescription medications are mixed indiscriminately." The health education series will continue on the first Tuesday of each month at the senior center until December.

Giammusso Elected Chairman

The School Committee elected former secretary Michael R. Giammusso as chairman and former Chairman Donald W. Robb as secretary to the board during Tuesday's meeting.

School Board Schedules Sessions

The School Committee will hold a meeting prior to town meeting on Monday, April 7, Tuesday, April 8, and Wednesday, April 9, at 6:30 p.m. to discuss the presentation of proposed budget and town warrant articles for town meeting. If the town meeting does not run for the entire three days, scheduled meetings will not be held.

Sirois Graduates

Paul Sirois, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Sirois, 7 Flint Circle, Andover, is among the winter graduates who received a bachelor of arts degree from Lake Forest College.

Sirois was a member of the football team and received his degree in biology.

Spring Courses Begin

The Department of Community Services has a number of spring programs for people interested in craft, language, photography, parenting, dance and fitness courses. Registration began early in the winter and has been continuing at the DCS office. All of the programs are listed in the red Winter/Spring booklet that was mailed to Andover homes in January. Consult the booklet or call the department for course fees and additional information.

An eight-week French course for children in grades 1 and 2 begins April 9 at West Elementary School from 3:15 p.m. to 4:15 p.m. The course is taught by Kathy Mohan and designed to develop basic skills in speaking French.

Spring Yard and Garden Preparation will be held on Wednesday, April 2, at the high school from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Pruning and basic care of shrubs and trees will also be covered. Donna Scanlon of the Cooperative Extension Service will run the program.

Craft programs include an eight-week Wall and Fabric Stenciling course at Doherty Junior High School, beginning Thursday, April 3; an eight-week Calligraphy course at Doherty Junior High School, beginning Tuesday, April 29; and a three-week Cut and Pierce Lampshade course at the high school.

A six-week Introduction to the Apple IIe Writer begins Monday, April 28, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the high school. This course will familiarize participants with basic editing commands, saving and loading text and printing a document and offers more sophisticated word processing capabilities. Learn to use color in photography effectively in Mike Collins' six-week class that begins Wednesday, April 9, at the high school. Special emphasis will be placed upon the tools needed to take good color photographs.

A three-week Parenting Your Adolescent course begins Wednesday, April 2, at the high school. An eight-week Puppy Kindergarten will be held at Recreation Park (first class at the high school on April 28). A six-week mother-tot class, Picturebook Adventures, begins Tuesday, May 6, at West Parish Church and a two-week program, Career Choices and Changes, will be held Tuesday, May 6 and 13, at the high school.

Amblyopia Screening Scheduled

The Andover Society has been conducting a program for amblyopia vision testing in Andover since 1967. This program is part of the Andover Public Schools' Early Childhood Screening given to children before entry into kindergarten.

Amblyopia, more commonly referred to as lazy eye, affects as much as five percent of the general population. It is characterized by reduced or dimmed vision in one or both eyes without any apparent disease. It is often caused by muscle imbalance in the eyes. One eye may turn out or in while the other sees straight, so two images are sent to the brain. To avoid confusion, the brain ignores the message from one of the eyes, thus gradually weakening that eye. If this condition is not detected before the child is six or seven, it becomes permanent and untreatable.

For the past 19 years the screening procedure has been the Snellen E Test, in which the child is asked to use his fingers to show which way the E points. This year, a new test, the Random Dot E, will be introduced in the program. It is a modern scientific technique recently developed to evaluate depth perception related to visual acuity.

The child wears a pair of "special" or "magic" glasses which look like sunglasses. The examiner holds up a series of two small cards and asks the child to point to the card on which he sees the hidden E. The E can only be seen through the glasses if both eyes are working together. The Random Dot E is quick, easy and highly accurate. It will be used in conjunction with the Snellen E in order to provide the greatest possible accuracy in the test results.

Amblyopia is treatable if it is detected early enough. All children between the ages of three and six should be screened for this condition. Screening will be held at the Shawsheen Early Childhood Center for prekindergarten children only on April 4, 11, 18 and May 2 from 8 a.m. to 9:30 a.m., 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m.

Open screening for three and four year olds and screening of older children will be held June 2-6 from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. at the Shawsheen Center.

For further information, contact Mrs. Rudolph Lantelme or Mrs. Thomas Larsen.

To Participate In Summer Exploration

Jason Male from Andover will participate at Exploration during one of its two, three-week sessions beginning July 6. Exploration is a non-profit enrichment program for junior high (entering grades 7-9) and high school (entering grades 10-12) students held on the campus of Wellesley College. Neither a school nor a camp, Exploration is a unique "young people's university," according to Ann and Arnie Singal of Westwood, Exploration's executive directors.

Students participate in workshops selected from the Exploration catalogue which describes more than 65 choices for the senior program and about 50 for the intermediate program in a road range of subject areas. Some of the workshops are law, psychology, dance, computers, photography, engineering, drama, political science, writing, art, brain science and many more. Recreational activities include sports, mini-course, hobby-type activities, field trips in and around the Greater Boston area. There is swimming, sailing, canoeing and windsurfing on Lake Waban on the Wellesley campus.

Commuting students may arrive at the program five days a week on Exploration-run buses with pick-up sites within ½ mile or nearer to their homes. They attend workshops and recreational activities and can stay on for supper and the special evening activities that take place nightly.

Andover Native Honored

Alan K. Thompson, a native of Andover, was awarded the Certificate of Achievement in recognition of outstanding leadership by Secretary of the Army John O. Marsh, Jr., during a Pentagon ceremony.

The Department of the Army Committee for Leadership recently conducted a Leadership Forum, formally highlighting the Army's 1985 theme of "Leadership."

At the suggestion of Marsh, leadership stories were solicited Army-wide. After nearly 300 success stories were screened, five nominations were selected for recognition in enlisted, officer, civilian and organization categories.

Maj. Wallace Shuman in the Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel at the Pentagon, said, "Selection was based on individual initiative and dedication, development of subordinates and professional values and ethics."

Thompson, the awardee in the civilian category, is a supervisory general engineer at New Cumberland Army Depot, Pa. He is credited with ensuring the effectiveness of a modernization program for the Eastern Distribution Center, which is the largest such facility in the world and accounts for 56 percent of all supplies shipped by the Army.

Col. John Schmidt, Thompson's supervisor, said that in planning and constructing the center, Thompson "successfully negotiated with the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation to save the Federal government more than a quarter million dollars."

The distribution center plan calls for the replacement of several older buildings with one new building. To accommodate the new building, it was necessary to buy land from the adjacent Capital City Airport, which is owned and operated by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania Department of Transportation.

Thompson, who is in charge of the engineering aspects of the Eastern Distribution Center project, worked hard to establish and maintain rapport with federal and state officials, local media and area residents. Although the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation was initially reluctant to sell, he eventually negotiated the sale of the land at the 1936 purchase price of $11,600, resulting in a savings of $273,400.

But, Thompson's involvement did not end there. The Federal Aviation Administration warned that if access roads to the new distribution center were constructed as planned, they would interfere with the required airspace of one runway. Thompson supervised a layout revision that was satisfactory to everyone involved.

"Because of Thompson's hard work, dedication and thoroughness, the Eastern Distribution Center project is on schedule and its cost remains well within the appropriated budget," said Schmidt.

During the Pentagon ceremony, Marsh said that Thompson set an example "by using professional competence, stamina, the element of competition and a positive attitude to overcome some adverse circumstances."

Activities Focus On Heart Month

March comes in with a "heartbeat" and goes out with "hop" for the children at West Parish Nursery School. This month started off with a specialized curriculum provided by the American Heart Association. The Heart Treasure Chest, a program designed for preschoolers, provided children with an opportunity to learn about how the heart works, ways to tell if it is healthy and care of the heart through diet and exercise. The purpose of the curriculum is to foster positive attitudes toward exercise and proper diet early in life.

The week of March 21 was dedicated to observance of children and hospitals week. Mary Weston, a local psychotherapist and member of the Association for the Care of Children's Health, visited the classroom to provide a hospital orientation program. Using stories, discussion and medical play, Weston clarified any scary misconceptions children harbor about hospitals and medical treatment.

The week was highlighted by a trip to Lawrence General Hospital where children had a chance to become familiar with some of the sights and sounds of the hospital and gained positive experiences with the friendly people who work there.

And, finally, March goes out with a "hop," or rather a multitude of hops as the children at West Parish participate in the Hop-N-Ing, a disabilities awareness program and fund-raising event organized by Easter Seals.

Children will have the opportunity to learn about the causes of disabilities and become familiar with various pieces of adaptive equipment.

Children collect pledges for each "hop" accomplished during a three-minute period. Last year the first series resulted in more than $57,000 being contributed to Easter Seal by Massachusetts preschoolers.

Two Hospitals, Ambulance Company Begin Joint Venture

A joint venture to provide advanced ambulance services in the Merrimack Valley was formally launched by St. Joseph's Hospital in Lowell, Bon Secours Hospital in Methuen and Bay State Ambulance in Malden.

The hospitals and ambulance company made the announcement at a reception at the Windsor Mills Restaurant in Dracut. The joint business will provide both emergency and transport services to the two cities and surrounding towns.

The new ambulances, with the latest in communications and emergency equipment, will be garaged in Lawrence and Lowell and begin responding to calls next month.

James H. Frame, president of St. Joseph's Hospital, said the new company will make a major contribution to the quality and scope of ambulance services in the region.

William L. Lane, executive director of Bon Secours Hospital, said the new company will be the first to provide advanced life support (ALS) services in the Lawrence area. ALS is an emergency response system using paramedics under the medical direction of emergency departments.

Michael G. Kotzen, president of Bay State Ambulance, the largest ambulance provider in Massachusetts, said the company's excellent track record and community outreach will bring a higher level of service and awareness of emergency procedures to the valley.

The ambulance headquarters in Lowell is at 50 Steadman St.; in Lawrence, 37 Marston St.

Kotzen said the new company will submit bids in Lawrence and other areas for service contracts this spring.

Joan Kennedy To Narrate At Children's Concert

Since its beginnings 25 years ago, the Merrimack Valley Philharmonic has dedicated itself to the education and musical advancement of students in the Merrimack Valley. Although they have provided a scholarship to a senior high student planning to further his education in music, the Philharmonic is now providing an opportunity for students from grades 5-8 to attend a concert designed especially for them. Tickets were distributed to the school systems of the Merrimack Valley in January and February by the Children's Concert Committee, headed by Edward Flanagan of Haverhill. This is the beginning of a program which will include live concerts and video taping of special instructive programs which can be used in the school systems. The concert will be held Saturday, April 12, at 10 a.m. in the Collins Center for the Performing Arts, Shawsheen Road, Andover.

The orchestra, under the direction of its music director, George Monseur, will begin the program with the Overture from "Russian and Ludmilla" by Glinka. This will be followed by Benjamin Britten's "Young Person's Guide to the Orchestra." This work was commissioned by the English Ministry of Education in 1947 for a film titled "The Instruments of the Orchestra." Britten provided a set of variations with narrator based on a theme of Henry Purcell. Each variation features the different instruments of the orchestra until the narrator says, "We have taken the orchestra apart. Now let us put it back together again." And this Britten does with a fugue in which he ingeniously has all of the instruments reappear in the order they played in the variations.

Joan Bennett Kennedy will be special guest artist for the Britten. Mrs. Kennedy has appeared as pianist in the Washington, D.C., area during the 1970s, performing works for piano four hands as well as compositions for two pianos. She performed Mozart's Concerto No. 21 in C Major and Debussy's Deux Arabesques with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra.

Mrs. Kennedy has narrated Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf" with the National Symphony and the Boston Symphony at Tanglewood and in Bonn, Germany. She narrated the Britten with the Boston Pops under Arthur Fiedler and John Williams and Copland's "Lincoln Portrait" in Yurin, Italy, in 1981. She has appeared before children's audiences at the Boston Symphony Orchestras' Youth Concerts and has performed with the North Shore Philharmonic, the Newton Symphony, the Brockton Symphony and the Buffalo Philharmonic.

Joan Kennedy

Six-year-old Shane Vitkovich, son of Joseph and Sherril Vitkovich of Reading, will make his conducting debut with the Philharmonic. He will conduct the "Colonel Bogey March," perhaps best known as the theme from "The Bridge on the River Kwai." Vitkovich attends the Humpty Dumpty School in Reading and his interests include music, dancing, drawing, painting, books, camping and fishing and all outdoor sports.

The program will conclude with John Phillip Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever." The Merrimack Valley Philharmonic Society is grateful to the Collins Center and the Massachusetts Arts Lottery Councils in Amesbury, Andover, Haverhill, Lawrence, Methuen and Tewksbury who have supported this concert.

Historic Agreement, Part Three

So the government solved Ed's problem by telling him that he must-carry any station within a certain distance from his cable system, preventing him from making "arbitrary" decisions on which channels to offer. At the same time, they created a problem for Ed.

The new rule meant that Ed had to add two channels which he currently did not have. These two stations were network affiliates, meaning that they carried the very similar programs to the 3 network stations Ed currently had on his cable system. But the law is the law, so Ed added the channels. Of course, he had to drop two channels to make room for them. Since he couldn't drop broadcast stations, he eliminated two of the "least popular" cable networks, a live U.S. government broadcast from the House of Representatives and a channel devoted to women's programming. Now he had people complain not only because he was forced to drop the two cable channels, but also because he added two that were duplicates of stations he already had!!! Poor Ed; you see, the government didn't solve his problem.

The Quintet's repertoire ranges from Renaissance works and opera to Russian dances, Broadway musicals and marches, many in their own arrangements. Since its founding in 1963, the Quintet has had only nine members. Mattern and Bauchens are two of the original musicians.

In the Quintet's early years, many of the performances were for children in the Chicago area. The group then played to community and college audiences throughout the midwest and soon established themselves as the leading musical ensemble in Chicago. They also began the commissioning of new works for brass.

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

While your new-born infant's navel is healing, he or she may sleep most comfortable on their backs. Later they usually prefer sleeping on their stomachs, with heads turned to the side. This helps to release accumulated air and later enables them to raise their heads and look about. However, you can train some babies to sleep in almost any position, and some prefer to sleep on their sides or on their backs. All these positions are safe. While in bed, the baby should be wrapped in a receiving blanket. A second lightweight blanket may be used but should not be tucked under the mattress.

Chorus Presents Special Concert

The annual Spring Concert of the Treble Chorus of New England will feature an original play based on Shakespeare's "Mid-Summer Night's Dream," adapted by Director Marie Stultz, at Andover's West Elementary School Auditorium on Friday, April 4, and Saturday, April 5, at 8 p.m.

Tickets will be available at the door. Advance tickets may be purchased at Thompson's Stationers, 45 Main St., Andover; North Andover Pharmacy, 189 Pleasant St., North Andover; Carr's Stationers, Atlantic Plaza, North Reading; and Charles Stationers, 612 Main St., Reading. Tickets can also be reserved by calling Judy Savastano.

Stultz feels strongly that "children should be exposed to fine theatre and fine music as early as possible." What the Treble Chorus has offered in fine music literature, it now is offering in unique music theatre. Music has been carefully selected to move the drama forward and the play has been carefully cut to make the play appropriate for children as well as entertaining to all ages.

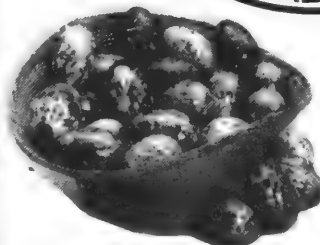

The producer is Linda Zimmerman from Andover with staging by Bob King and costumes by Jan Galezian, also from Andover. Accompaniments and interlude music will be played by a string quartet of students from the New England Conservatory. Elizabeth Ann Larson, violin, from North Andover, will be joined by Sarah Thornblade, Rebecca Kodis and Luna Shyr from Newton.

The Treble Chorus recently appeared with the New England Conservatory Youth Chamber Orchestra at Collins Center in Andover and Jordan Hall in Boston. They were featured at Hammond's Castle in the annual Christmas concert.

Leading roles will be played and sung by Joe Gillam, Alyssa Sullivan, Amanda Gulezian, Amy Zimmerman and Kristen Alberich from Andover; Peter Carney and Annaliesha Schumm from North Andover; Joseph Olefirowicz from Methuen; Cheryl Hartford from Wilmington; Mary Ellen Obert from Tewksbury; and Sandy Miller from Reading.

To Perform Brahms' "Requiem"

The combined orchestras and choruses of Phillips Andover and Phillips Exeter Academies will perform Brahms' "German Requiem" on Saturday, April 5, at 8 p.m. in Cochran Chapel, Andover.

Soloists will be Beda Polanco, soprano, and Santo Cataudella, baritone. Mimi Bravar will conduct.

Brahms devoted more than a decade to the composition of this great choral work. Because of tragic events in the composer's own life, the "German Requiem" is invested with a great deal of personal concern and emotion. It became one of the outstanding masterpieces of a great musical century, "A glorious work," in the words of historian Leonard Burkat, "that is elevating and ennobling."

The performance will be repeated at Phillips Church in Exeter, N.H., on Sunday, April 6, at 3 p.m.

The public is invited at no admission charge.

Andover High Notes

By Mark Marmer

Yesterday marked the beginning of democracy at Andover High School as the first ever House Meeting took place.

"This is an exciting new step in student, faculty and administration relations that will allow all three groups to work together for the benefit of the school," says Christopher Abell, president of the Student Advisory Council.

The House, a coalition of students, faculty and administration, is the vehicle to implement the constitution and student bill of rights that the 1985-86 student government recently completed. All rules, policies and decisions that affect the student body must now go through the House, which will meet at least once every two weeks.

The 33 students, who have one vote each in the House Meeting, are the class officers and senators from the sophomore, junior and senior classes and students on the Student Advisory Council, SAC.

The three class advisors, student government advisor and ten faculty-elected staff members have one vote each. Thus, the faculty is represented by 14 voting members.

Both assistant principals, Mr. Hixon and Mr. Richardson, have a vote. The principal, Mrs. Jennings, does not have a vote, but, like the President of the United States, has the power to veto any rule that the House passes.

The details of House Meeting make up a large part of the Andover High Constitution. There are also sections describing the process for electing student government members, their roles and responsibilities, the impeachment process and the process for adding amendments to the constitution.

The 1985-86 student government has put a great deal of time and effort into the development of the document.

"They have put in over 60 hours of work from October to March, including holidays, weekends and many Sunday evenings," says Miek Marcoux, student government advisor.

"This is a significant step for students, as they learn to initiate their own rights and accept responsibility," he adds.

The student government focused most of its energies this year on writing the constitution. Mrs. Jennings has given her full support to the effort and has actually encouraged the development process. "I am a firm believer in student rights and responsibilities," she says.

The student government has met with the faculty and administration a number of times to work out the specific details. Considering the amount of time that was put into the constitution, it is understandable that everyone involved breathed a sigh of relief when it was signed and completed late last week.

The student body, as a whole, is excited about having a voice in the decisions that affect them.

Doherty Jr. High Happenings

By Adam Galvin

Two Saturdays ago the student council held its annual clean-up day. The entire council spent all day working vigorously to clean up the school. This is an example of the tremendous pride and loyalty student council members possess towards their school. This loyalty surpasses that of any other school in our area. The preparation and running of clean-up day was headed by Mr. Hendrickson.

Matt MacVicar was the story for Andover at the New England national swim meet. In addition to being secretary of D.J.H. and co-captain of the soccer team, he is incredibly talented in swimming. Out of a group of 30, Matt finished 12th in the 50 free and ninth in the 100 free.

Although it doesn't receive much recognition, the D.J.H. math team does exist. They have made impressive marks this year in math competition. The unsung heroes of the math team are Karl Aeder, Chris Brouady, Jeff Chen, Sean Donohue, Niel Fater, Jeff Johnson, Chris Lowe, Mike Robinson, Pat Timmons, Steve Wrigley and alternates, Kerry Lynch, Joe Gillam, Jin-woo Joo and Gary Wang. The team competes in five categories: number theory, geometry, miscellaneous, arithmetic operations and algebra. In their last competition they competed against West, Chelmsford, Tewksbury and Westford and scored an impressive second place. However, they are still waiting for the results of the final season standings.

Tryouts for spring baseball, softball and boys' and girls' track are being held for the next two weeks.

Those who are at war with others are not at peace with themselves.

was considering it for a program connected with C.L.A.S.S., Inc.

In previous years, the Knights of Columbus had tried unsuccessfully to have the zoning of their parcel changed to Industrial D. In spite of its residential zoning, said Jeffrey Sheehy, the son of the parcel's owner, the neighborhood was "not an acceptable place to live." He said that he and his father considered the proposed day care use for their land compatible with that of the old Knights' hall, two parcels away, which will be leased to The Center for Handicapped Children, Inc., a facility that serves children under seven years of age with physical, mental, emotional or multiple handicaps. "We feel comfortable with it (the use)," he said, "and we feel there's a need in town for it."

Although board members agreed that the need for day care does exist in Andover, they voiced their opposition to the construction of a building with 17,000 square feet of space on a relatively small lot. Also, members explained, the lot between the proposed building site and the K. of C. hall, which also measures one-and-one-half acres, would be empty; the owner might return after construction with a request for use of that lot, further increasing the density of use.

"How would it (the building) work in the ID zone?" asked chairman Margaret Bradshaw.

The building would not be possible with required ID setbacks on the site, replied engineer William MacLeod, Sullivan's co-presenter, because the lot would not be large enough to accommodate them.

Mused Bradshaw, "The town would be in a worse position with this building ley."

Osgood said that he is aware that first-floor use of the building he is buying might be restricted to retail, restaurant or personal service use if the Town Meeting approves the creation of a proposed Retail Overlay Zone in the Park and Barnard Streets area. Although he said that he is "not in favor of that kind of zoning by the nature of what it is," and feels that market pressures should be allowed to dictate downtown property use, he added that he intends to work with the town in his consideration of the alley's future.

Osgood has been involved in such developments as the Bixby Buildings at Wilson's Corner, several housing developments and currently has development of condominiums at the former Osgood Mills property in the planning stages in North Andover.

Appointed President Of Firm

Philip J. Kendall, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Packard Press, one of the leading financial, legal and corporate printers and publishers in the United States recently announced the appointment of John I. Scileppi as president of their New England Division.

"I see Scileppi as a leading force for our New England operation. His experience in the printing industry dates back almost 20 years developing and implementing innovative ways to serve his clients. He's familiar with every aspect of the New England market. And now he's applying his vast knowledge in financial printing to establish Packard Press as a dominate force," emphasized Kendall.

Prior to joining Packard Press, Scileppi headed his own company, The Firm, Inc., a financial consulting service to a number of New England corporations. He also was responsible for the rebuilding and reorganization of Pandick Press New England where he served as president. Before that, Scileppi spent 13 years with Bowne & Company, another national financial printer, moving from vice president of sales to president of Bowne of Boston, Inc. He was later promoted to vice president of Bowne & Company in the New York parent company.

"I feel confident that the experience and knowledge I bring to Packard will result in a company that can answer all the printing needs of New England's financial and business community. Our full service facility will occupy 12,000 square feet in the Boston World Trade Center, the newest, most ambitious high-tech complex along Commonwealth Pier in Boston," comments Scileppi. Packard Press will operate three work shifts with typesetting, reproduction, binding and printing capabilities, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Facilities management services will be available to those firms needing an efficient and cost-effective operation of their in-house documentation procedures.

"As with all Packard Press Divisions throughout the country we guarantee fast turnaround time and accurate results. Quality is always foremost in our mind and the standards of quality Packard Press has established in their other operations will be maintained in New England," promises Scileppi.

Scileppi received his B.A. from St. Anselm College in Manchester, N.H. He attended St. Johns Law School in New York and attended the Program for Management Development at the Harvard Business School. He served in the U.S. Marine Corps as a captain during the Vietnam war.

Scileppi resides with his wife, Olivia, and four children in Andover where he is active in many community, business, educational and charitable organizations.

Named Regional Director

The Beacon Hospitality Group, a Boston-based hotel management and development company, has announced the appointment of Andover resident Stephen D. Pletcher to vice president, regional director of operations. He was managing director of the Embassy Suites Hotel Boston/Cambridge prior to his appointment. Beacon owns and operates the Embassy Suites and five other hotels nation-wide.

Pletcher will oversee the operation of Beacon's three New England and mid-west hotels. Beacon also operates a Holiday Inn at Bradley Airport in Connecticut and a Days Inn at Detroit Metropolitan Airport. Future Beacon hotels in Pletcher's region will include properties under development in Braintree and Waltham and in Troy and Southfield, Mich.

Pletcher began his hotel career in 1967 after graduating from Middlebury College in Vermont with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Economics. He was associated with The Plaza Hotel in New York from 1970-76 and oversaw the hotel's $11.5 million restoration. Prior to joining the Beacon Hospitality Group, Pletcher was general manager of the Minneapolis Marriott Hotel.

Pletcher's appointment is a result of the Beacon Hospitality Group's rapid expansion nationwide. The Group was formed in 1982, according to President James M. Bradley, and employs 1,000 people at its six hotels. "We started three years ago with three employees and a lot of plans," said Bradley. "Our ambitious development goals have all been met and we now need regional directors to ensure our continued success."

Bradley said Pletcher was the ideal choice for regional director in the New England and mid-west regions. "Steve has nearly 20 years of hotel management experience in all regions of the United States. His extraordinary administrative skills resulted in the very successful opening of our Boston Embassy Suites Hotel and our other hotels in his jurisdiction will benefit immensely from his talents."

LECTURE No. 1 IN THE "HEALTHY PARENTING" SERIES.

Sponsored by St. John's Hospital.

HOW SICK IS REALLY SICK?

Stephen Witover, M.D.

Chief of Pediatrics, St. John's Hospital
Medical Director, Teen Health Service

That terrible uncertainty when your child coughs or runs a fever. Vomiting, diarrhea

...is it serious? Is it minor? Above all, what should you do about it?

Dr. Witover's professional and personal experience—he's the father of two—turns his talk into a simple verbal reference "book" on childhood ailments and treatments. You'll learn how to recognize symptoms, to identify bacterial versus viral infections, to properly administer over-the-counter treatments and more. Most important, you'll learn how to understand the nature of your child's illness, lessening the terror of the unknown. Come prepared to take notes. They'll be invaluable the next time your child "feels sick".

About The Speaker: Dr. Witover heads St. John's Pediatric Department, and is Medical Director of our Teen Health Service. He is affiliated with several Boston hospitals, including Children's Hospital and New England Medical Center.

Date: Tuesday, April 1, 1986

Post Office Avenue Property

Salafias Acquire Properties

Paul and Roberta Salafia, local residents and business people, recently announced the purchase of numbers 10 through 16 Post Office Avenue from a Danvers group of property investors with significant holdings in other commercial properties in the Andover area.

"The purchase was made to help insure our continued growth as a thriving company in Andover," said Paul Salafia, president of Advertising Management Services. "After 14 years in business, we are continually growing and have a constant need for office space and had to take steps to solidify our future in the downtown area. Our clients are from all over New England and enjoy visiting our offices, so to be isolated on the outskirts of town away from all the activity is not in our best interest."

"In the advertising business we entertain quite often and need to be in the heart of things," said Roberta Salafia, treasurer of the corporation. "It was quite an undertaking for a company our size, but we felt it was a sound investment."

It was a completely local transaction financed by the Andover Bank and handled by Samuel J. Concerni, an Andover attorney, and Bud Crowinsheild, an Andover Certified Public Accountant. "Andover had all the resources we needed to help this dream become a reality," said Salafia.

The buildings are now occupied by The Mouse Trap, an apparel shop, The Andover's Gift Shop, My Brother's Place, a pizza and sandwich shop, and the two companies owned and operated by the Salafias, Advertising Management Services and MarketPlace Publications, Inc.

Chantland Appointed Chairman

Dennis Chantland of Andover has been named the Massachusetts Telethon Corporate Chairperson of the 1986 Arthritis Foundation Telethon.

Chantland, vice president of retail operations at Lechmere, is also a trustee of the Massachusetts Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation. He will call on companies to enlist their support for the telethon through various sponsorship levels.

The seven-hour telethon is set for Sunday, April 27. The show will originate from Nashville, Tenn., and be distributed via satellite to broadcast stations throughout the U.S. Epic recording artist Mickey Gilley will return as celebrity host for the fifth consecutive year.

Locally, the telethon will be broadcast on WXNE-TV 25 from 12 noon to 7 p.m. Barry Nolan and Jan Holmes will co-host and be joined by other local media celebrities.

The Massachusetts Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation, 124 Watertown St., Watertown, helps local citizens through programs of arthritis research, support, patient services, public awareness and professional education.

Special Services At Faith

Faith Lutheran Church, 360 South Main St., Andover, will observe Holy Week with special services commemorating the events of the last week of Jesus' life.

The congregation will gather at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 27, for a liturgy celebrating Jesus' institution of the Sacrament of Holy Communion. It is the beginning of the Triduum, the three days of Jesus' death and resurrection. As the communion liturgy ends, the church's altar is stripped and all ornamentation is removed for the observance of Good Friday.

The service continues on Good Friday, March 28, at 7:30 p.m. with a solemn liturgy of readings, hymns and prayers on the day of Jesus' crucifixion. The Passion of our Lord according to St. John is read in the churches on this day. After the bidding prayer for the whole Christian church and adoration of the crucified, the congregation leaves to gather again on Saturday for the Vigil of Easter.

The church celebrates the Easter Vigil on Saturday, March 29, at 7 p.m. The vigil is composed of four services: The Service of Light in which the Paschal Candle is lighted and the resurrection is proclaimed; the Service of Readings in which the congregation hears the church's instruction from the Hebrew Scriptures for Baptism candidates; the Service of Baptism in which new Christians are welcomed into the church; and the First Eucharist of Easter in which the church celebrates the presence of the resurrected Christ among His people. Fellowship follows the vigil.

A short outdoor service will be held at 6:30 a.m. on Sunday, March 30, followed by a light breakfast. The choirs will sing at the celebrations of the Eucharist at 8:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

Open House

New Hampshire College will hold an Open House on Saturday, April 12, from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the north campus in Hooksett, N.H. Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. in Room 100 of New Hampshire Hall.

To Observe Easter Triduum

St. Augustine's Parish Community will celebrate the Easter Triduum, the three most sacred and solemn days in the church's year, this week.

The Mass of the Lord's Supper will be celebrated at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday. The washing of feet gives Jesus' example and mandate to serve one another out of love.

The Lord's Passion will be celebrated with a liturgy of the Word, Veneration of the Cross and Holy Communion on Good Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The Easter Vigil will be celebrated on Holy Saturday at 7:30 p.m. This year is very special to St. Augustine's. Nine adults, who have been studying for several months with parish members, will be fully initiated into the Church that night. Two will receive Baptism; all will receive Confirmation and Eucharist.

Kitchen Design

by David A. Clement, Designer

WOOD BE KING

In the world of kitchen cabinets, wood has been the perennial winner, outselling laminates by a margin of three to one. It is prized for its durability and natural look. Wood is also chosen by many homeowners for the warmth it adds to a room that is so often the nucleus of the household. In today's kitchen, oak is the preferred species largely because it is durable and moderately priced. However, other woods merit attention. They include maple, a tight grained hardwood; ash, similar in color and grain to oak; and cherry and walnut, which are beautifully grained. Pine is a soft wood that, to some minds, acquires more character with every nick.

The key to a successful kitchen business is to feature products to suit every client's individual tastes. Whether it be woods or laminates, WINDSOR KITCHENS uses only the finest materials to come up with new ideas for your kitchen. Our staff will know which product will last the greatest length of time and still suit your needs. The reputation of our business is built on quality workmanship, outstanding service and our ability to design and install a kitchen to accommodate any space or shape. So take a trip down to 1181 Boston Rd., Ward Hill to start your new kitchen. 9:00-5:30 Daily, Wed. 9-8; Sat. 10-3 Tel. 372-3444

Dunn gymnasium at Andover High was a lonely place during Monday's annual town election. Here, election workers pass the time in conversation.

Election Draws 376 Voters

By Lisa Waterman

One town official equated Andover's town elections to a basketball team advancing to the next play-off round without even playing an opponent.

Selectman Charles Wesson was referring to the no-contest election and the less than two and one-third voter turn-out during Monday's town election.

Monday's fair weather brought out 376 voters out of the 16,000 registered to cast their ballots at Dunn Gymnasium.

"We were expecting a much larger number of voters," Town Clerk Elden Salter said. "It was the smallest number in modern times. But, it wasn't that surprising in a no-contest election."

The voters that did get the opportunity to use the new voting machines were satisfied and considered it an accurate and economic system for the town, according to the town clerk.

The election resulted in the re-election of the incumbent six candidates:

•SCHOOL COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN Donald Robb, 36 York Street, for his third successive three-year term. Robb received 302 votes.

•SCHOOL COMMITTEE MEMBER Richard E. Neal, 1 Twinbrook Circle, was elected to his third, three-year term. Neal received 319 votes.

•SELECTMAN Gerald H. Silverman, 56 Duffton Road, was elected to a third, three-year term on the board. Silverman received 319 votes.

•SELECTMAN Charles H. Wesson, Jr., 13 Marwood Drive, was re-elected to serve his second three-year term. Wesson received 320 votes.

•ANDOVER HOUSING AUTHORITY member Ronald C. Hajj, 22 Enmore St., was elected to his first, full, five-year term. Hajj was appointed in 1984 to finish out the unexpired term of Tom Eldred. Hajj received 329 votes.

•MODERATOR James D. Donerty, 9 Juniper Road, who has held office for the past eight years, was re-elected to another one-year term.

"I thank the people who came out and performed their civic duty," Donerty said. "It's important that people stay in the habit of voting, this way if an important election comes up, they won't let it slip by."

Gets Extension

At its March 18 meeting, the Planning Board voted to grant the developers of "Great Heron Place," a subdivision proposed for a location off Orchard Street, an extension of 45 days to resubmit preliminary plans.

As submitted, plans for the five-acre subdivision featured three irregularly-shaped lots with houses and a back open space of 2.6 acres, located primarily in wetlands, which would be deeded to the town.

Board members took issue with the placement of the subdivision's two planned drives, one of which would serve two houses; they also found it difficult to accept a proposed pedestrian easement to property in the town-designated back lot which would be used for ice skating.

The proposed easement would have led through the front yard of one of the parcels.

After fielding suggestions from the board on the plans, which had been scheduled for vote by March 28, the presenting engineer agreed to ask for the extension on behalf of the developer. The vote to extend was unanimous.

School Computer Program Rapped By Birnbach

By Lisa Waterman

School Committee member David Birnbach informed fellow School Committee members and school administrators that he was displeased with the pace that the Andover school system was keeping regarding update of computer equipment and courses in comparison with other school systems.

Article 34 initially requested town meeting to agree to the sum of $75,000 to update computer equipment. The article included the request to purchase printers, disc drives, laser scanners, word processor and microcomputer equipment, memory expansion boards and computer center equipment for administrative use.

Birnbach's objections were that proposals were made prior to an extensive needs assessment and that the computer equipment appeared to be set to update administrative needs and not educational needs.

"I think this is the wrong way that we should be moving," Birnbach said. "It was promised that we would be moving toward a three-year integrated computer plan and have tried to be patient and work with the people who are involved. I'm upset with the way we are spending the $75,000."

At the present time a needs assessment is being conducted in the school system by members of the school administration, staff and representatives from private industry. Recommendations will be made later in the school year.

The Andover School system is four or five years behind the Lexington and Lawrence school systems in computer curriculum and equipment, according to Birnbach.

"Recommending $75,000 at town meeting is a farce," Birnbach said. "What we are currently offering in the school system is 100 percent obsolete. I wanted to keep quiet and I feel badly it had to come to this."

Birnbach illustrated courses that he would like to see introduced into the school curriculum. The courses involved the use of computers in the math depart-

Misinformation On Transportation Policy Scored

School Business Administrator Frank Paul informed the School Committee that new residents to the town are receiving promises from realtors and developers regarding school bus transportation for their children that the school department can't deliver.

"Irate parents have informed me that they are being promised by zealous developers and realtors that the bus will stop at their front door. We are being oversold about our ability, in order to sell a house," Paul said.

New home buyers are often unaware of School Committee policy regarding school bus transportation, according to Paul.

The School Committee policy, based on the state law, states that elementary school children are entitled to ride on the school bus if they live farther than one and one-half miles from the school and two miles from the school for secondary school students. If an area is proved by school administrators and police to be hazardous, students can be eligible for bus service below the set radius.

"We are already doing in it in many cases," Paul told the committee.

Ruling that an area is hazardous is the result of hundreds and hundreds of on sight studies by police and school administrators, according to Paul.

There are currently 29 elementary school children within one and one-half mile limit who walk to school, according to statistics provided by Paul.

The analysis of riders and walkers at various mileage points between the schoolhouse and residence was a result of a request by the committee for the statistics. This sprung from an appeal from a Wabanaki Way parent to change the policy during a March 13 meeting of the School Committee, informing them that North Andover, Tewksbury, Wilmington and Westwood and a number of towns had already changed the policy.

The suggestion for holding a joint discussion between the Selectmen and the School Committee regarding town policy toward school bus transportation was made by School Committee member Susan Poore.

Cabaret '86

The students of Doherty Junior High presented their annual Cabaret last Saturday featuring 21 student acts. Dancers, singers, musicians, The Handbell Choir and comedy sketches entertained a full house of parents, students and friends of Doherty Junior High. Cabaret advisor, John Givens, and his staff, directed over 50 students who worked behind the scenes as well as in front to make Cabaret '86 a success. Norris entertains with a variety of songs played "In The Note of D"; Julie Palmquist dances to the song "Separate Lives"; Amy Zimmerman as Marion greets Gaylord Fontain played by Steve Gack in a scene from the comedy skit, "As The Stomach Turns."

West Junior High Annual Play

The West Junior High student body presented their annual play, "Mix-Up at the Mortuary," last Friday. This three-act comedy takes place in London, England, involving the staff and visitors of the Victoria Ann Tibbets' Memorial Hospital in a confusing Tibbets' Founder's Day of mistaken identities. Under the direction of Carolyn Hartnett and the aid of parents, over 20 students were involved behind the scenes as well as on the stage in this year's production. Photos clockwise from upper left: Terry Hurley as Wally and Jon Ruthkowski as Johnny disguise themselves to look like Victoria Ann Tibbets in order to enter the hospital and pull off their evil plan; Ben Medler as Basil the nurse, dressed as Tibbets in honor of Founder's Day, and Meg McConville (far right) as Val, the head nurse, try to help Julie Shea as Mrs. Johnson and Holly Donohue as Miss Johnson who came to the mortuary to make funeral arrangements; Dave Sharrow as Stew, a physician, Val, the head nurse, and Kristen Alberich as Tris the nurse try to understand this mixed-up day.

Sidewalks Needed

An article to be considered at the annual town meeting, which gets underway April 7, asks appropriation of $90,000 for sidewalk construction in Ballardvale.

There is opposition to the proposal from the town's official family, but frankly, those who govern the town, namely residents attending town meeting, should look favorably on the proposal.

Vale residents, if for no other reason than being rewarded for their patience in putting up with severe traffic problems imposed upon them by industrial development, deserve walks to improve personal safety in the village.

But, approval of sidewalk construction should be more than just a reward. It should be a recognition by the town of the need to provide safety measures for a section of the community which is in dire need for such measures.

Among reasons given for disapproval of the item are such things as a need for a master plan for sidewalk construction throughout the town, the particular area is not a high priority item, and the usual response, can't afford it this year, wait 'till next.

All of the reasoning is ridiculous.

A long time ago there was some semblance of a master plan for sidewalk construction in Andover, which like so many other plans and consultant's recommendations is collecting dust somewhere, or rightfully got thrown out when town offices were moved.

Among the recommendations at that time was installation of sidewalks along Haverhill street to provide safety for youngsters going to and from the new YMCA.

The new Y is over ten years old and there is no sign of new sidewalks being built in the area.

If such construction work is to be prioritized, why hasn't it been done long before now?

If there are other areas more important and in need of attention before Ballardvale, they either should be addressed, or at least some planning done to respond to the need.

As for the wait until next year, that is the response given to many an item appearing in annual town meeting warrants. Greatest example of following that philosophy is the condition of Andover schools where the maintenance budget is traditionally cut, rather than attending to problems.

Having followed that theory, the town is now faced with major response to such items as roofs, walls, or putting it realistically, extensive and costly repairs to municipal property.

Ballardvale residents have asked for little over the years, with the exception of some relief for the traffic problems. An interchange to the Lowell Junction industrial area continues to be talked about, but chances of its reality seem slim.

It, therefore, seems reasonable to respond favorably to the request for funding the sidewalk project in Ballardvale.

Hazardous Waste

Hindsight is terrific. Why didn't citizens demand controls on hazardous waste years ago when its dangers were first apparent?

I remember, not long ago, when a handful of environmentalists ran around warning of potential water contamination. They were considered candidates for the "funny farm," instead of candidates for public office. Government regulation of industry's production and disposal of chemicals was a radical idea which, many warned, would limit economic growth and competition.

Now, of course, taxpayers are faced with the financial and health consequences of inaction. Over 40 Massachusetts communities have already lost public or private wells, due to chemical contamination, and suspected dumpsites threaten hundreds of others.

Despite many emergency measures and the expenditure of millions of dollars, we are moving at a snail's pace in cleaning up hazardous waste. I am currently working on legislation which will amend the state Superfund law by requiring an accelerated and comprehensive effort to find and clean up the state's dumpsites.

The Hazardous Waste Cleanup Bill (S.1132) requires that DEQE (Department of Environmental Quality Engineering), within two years, complete a program to identify as many potential sites as possible and outline a series of timeline requirements for cleanup. The net result of this timetable will be that within six years some 400 already confirmed priority sites will be contained and over 1,000 new sites will be reviewed.

Currently, there are no standards for judging when a dumpsite has been "cleaned up." For many types of sites, permanent cleanup technologies are available today. For others, necessary technologies are in the developmental stages. Where used, temporary solutions must ensure that substantial hazards to health or the environment are controlled and designed to be effective for at least 15 years.

Perhaps the most controversial provision of S.1132 deals with public participation. Often citizens in communities with sites are not aware of the cleanup decision process, let alone the results of testing. The bill provides that within 30 days after a site investigation, DEQE must publish a notice in area newspapers summarizing what was found. Public meetings, which involve citizens in the cleanup plan, would be mandatory.

The wisdom and cost of mandating, by law, a timeline for this cleanup effort will be hotly debated. Ironically, if the threatened loss of a resource as vital as our drinking water were due to an enemy, we would be outraged, angered and charged for action. We would, as this bill provides, declare an emergency and act accordingly.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — March 1911

What might have proved to be a serious fire and caused the loss of one of the blocks on Main Street occurred on Tuesday evening shortly after seven o'clock, when a blaze was discovered in West's bakery. The bakery is in the cellar under the shop and the chief seat of the trouble was in the front part of the cellar. At the time that the department was summoned, flames and smoke were pouring out from the bakery window, and the situation looked alarming. After a short time, however, the fireman got the smoke under control.

Andover people may be interested to know that Miss Florence Lincoln, the author of the prize play, "The End of the Bridge," now running at the Castle Square Theatre in Boston, is the daughter of the late Rev. Varnum Lincoln of this town.

The annual contest for the J.W. Barnard prizes will take place in Punchard Hall this evening and is anticipated as the subjects of the essays to be presented are all much-mooted questions of the present day.

Andover has now enjoyed the services of a visiting nurse for three years. For two and a half years Miss Dodge has given all her time to this work and the people of Andover heartily appreciate her ability and devotion.

An excellent performance of "Twelfth Night" was given Tuesday evening by senior classes at Abbot Academy to a large and enthusiastic audience. The costumes and scenery were effective and the play went smoothly and rapidly.

50 Years Ago — March 1936

With the waters of the Shawsheen river having receded after the worst flood in the town's history, Andover spent the week repairing the damage caused by the swollen stream. Because of the danger to health conditions in Andover, none of the families which had to vacate were allowed to return until after the premises had been thoroughly cleaned and inspected by the Board of Health.

National Guard troops from Salem and Lynn guarded the community last weekend, after all electric power failed. The only lights in the Square came from floodlights borrowed from Melrose, which also sent a small generator.

On Monday, a squad of 200 boys from 167 Co., C.C.C. descended on Shawsheen Village and began the job of cleaning up homes, yards and roadways. Twenty-five trucks of the C.C.C. were placed in service. The offices of the selectmen, town clerk and Board of Health were transferred to the Aberdeen building to facilitate the handling of the work. Many of the families have moved back to their homes.

Marland and Shawsheen Villages were the only sections of Andover affected by the flood caused by the Merrimack River backing up. The Marland Mill dam prevented the water from going back into the Vale, although at the peak of the flood a mere ripple showed where the dam had been. It was early Saturday morning that the river started receding after having caused the cessation of electric light, the vacating of homes, a near drowning, and the rerouting of all Boston-Lawrence traffic out through West Andover and into Lawrence via Beacon street at the peak of the flood. The traffic light in Shawsheen square was barely visible above the water. Just a small portion of the police box was to be seen, and nothing much more than lems are important issues the board will face during the next three years.

"We have to find some areas of moderate housing, subsidized or condos over the next few years. We have to look toward the completion of the River Road project and Burt Road, to solve some of the existing traffic problems."

School Committeeman Donald Robb feels that voters are relatively satisfied with the direction that the School Committee is taking.

"The goals over the next few years will be a gradual change in the curriculum and the addition of more hard and software computer equipment in the school system. School enrollment has begun to increase, we have to address the question of growth in the Andover Schools.

Jumping For Heart

Two-hundred students and ten teachers from the West Elementary School took part in the school's fifth annual Jump Rope for Heart event last Friday. The event, organized by physical education teacher Louise Rozzi and sponsored by the Physical Education Department, is held to raise money to benefit the Heart Association. This event also provides students the opportunity to demonstrate the effectiveness of rope jumping as a cardiovascular fitness exercise which helps keep their hearts healthy. The amount raised this year is not known at this time but the school believes they topped last year's amount of $4,700. Pucksters Lose

The Andover Squirt B hockey team lost 2-1 to Haverhill in Thursday night at Haverhill in the opening round of the playoffs in the Methuen league.

Andover fell behind 2-0 as Haverhill scored a goal in each of the first two periods. Then Brian Flanagan scored a goal on a pass from Mike Lombard on a faceoff. With the Haverhill lead cut to a single goal, Andover pressed the attack for the remainder of the game. It pressured the Haverhill goalie with numerous shots but were unable to score the equalizer. Goalie Jeff Pothier played an excellent game for Andover. He made a number of outstanding saves and had no chance on either of the Haverhill goals.

Despite the playoff loss, the Squirt B team enjoyed an exciting and successful season in the Methuen League and expresses its thanks to all of those players, parents and officials who were a part of it.

Andover again played Haverhill in a Danvers League game on Saturday night. This time, Andover won 3-1, thus enabling them to remain in first place.

Andover scored in the first minute of the game when Richie Enos sent Brian Flanagan in alone with a nice pass. Flanagan wasted no time in putting Andover in the lead when he faked the goalie and scored. Haverhill tied the score in the second period at the six-minute mark. Andover scored two goals in the final minute and a half of the period.

The first goal was scored on a pretty shot by Ryan Doyle on a pass from Mike Lombard. The next goal was scored by Flanagan just 30 seconds later. The assists were made by Lombard and John Brodbine. Haverhill pressed the attack in the third period. However, Andover goalie Phil Smith kept them from scoring by making a number of key saves.

The Department of Community Services 10th Annual Gymnastics Meet was held recently at Andover High School and attracted almost 300 participants and 1000 spectators.

Students in grades 1-6 representing all Andover schools competed in the rope climb, balance beam, uneven bars, rings, parallel bars, vaulting and floor exercises before audiences made up of parents, teachers and gymnastic enthusiasts. The children were able to show all the skills they had learned in school in their gym classes. The department expresses appreciation all the physical education teachers for encouraging participation of their students, especially Art Iworsley and Louise Rozzi who helped with the awards presentation. Ballardvale Residents Seek Sidewalks For Safety

By Susan K. O'Neill

Walking with her children to the library, a woman ducks behind the nearest roadside telephone pole to avoid an oncoming truck.

It is not a scenario common to downtown Andover. But it is a daily fact of life in Ballardvale, say two sponsors of a warrant article which would provide for the construction of sidewalks in the heart of that community.

"The traffic situation in Ballardvale has been abominable for a very long time," says Sherron Heller, president of the Ballardvale Improvement Association (BVIS). "We're sort of a unique community in Andover. We've got a lot of pedestrian traffic—people walking to the stores, the playground, the library."

Those pedestrians, Heller continues, often find themselves walking in the street—which has become grossly overloaded over the past few years with traffic from nearby industries. Heller and other Ballardvale residents want the Town Meeting assembly to recognize the absence of sidewalks—some of which have been paved over to street level when the road has been resurfaced—as a safety hazard, and to correct it by appropriating $90,000 for the construction of granite-curbed walks along Andover Street, Tewksbury Street and Clark Road.

"We felt there had to be a clear delineation between the street and the sidewalk," says Heller. "Granite curbs are very visible; they would raise the level of the sidewalk so that cars wouldn't be able to park on it."

"We want Ballardvale to remain a safe little community where people can walk and bike," she says. "With 15,000 cars a day driving down the street, that's not possible. We're worried about somebody getting killed; until that happens, we're afraid that nothing will be done."

Richard Bowen, a former Andover selectman and town manager who lives in Ballardvale, helped draft the warrant article. He feels the request is justified, not only by the conditions as he sees them, but by the town's own description of the area's traffic problems. Two years ago, he says, when the town studied the possibility of building a new interchange on I-93, it published a report in which it acknowledged that Ballardvale suffers from a number of traffic-based public safety concerns. The report noted that the Ballardvale roads are narrow and winding, explains Bowen, and that they are poorly suited to carry the high volume of traffic they receive from local industries such as the Gillette Corporation.

The prospective interchange never got built, says Bowen, and the town did nothing to alleviate the safety problems it acknowledged. "If you agree that I have a problem—a serious problem—and you refuse to deal with it," he says, "Something is breaking down. They have agreed that the problem exists; it seems to me there's always got to be an answer."

Bowen also helped establish the figure of $90,000 for the work on approximately 4,635 feet of roadway. He admits that he underestimated the price per foot of the construction when he put the article together, but adds that he also overestimated the footage. In actuality, the two figures will balance each other out fairly well, he says.

To critics who would consider the paucity of sidewalks in Ballardvale a "local" problem, Bowen says, "Industrial development in Lowell Junction has benefited the whole town by lowering taxes. But the section of town that has to deal with the attendant problems is Ballardvale. It's not fair for you to benefit from the development and not have to help pay for it."

Members of the Finance Committee recently voted against the article. Fin-com chairman Ed Kulsar says that the committee considered the Ballardvale request a "one-shot deal."

"The town should have an overall plan to improve sidewalks...you have master plans for roads and sewers; you should have a master plan for this sort of thing," he says.

Furthermore, Kulsar says, the committee felt that Andover's limited financial resources should be committed to items that carried a higher priority. "Dollar-wise, the town has other problems it should be addressing," he says.

Sherron Heller disagrees. Priorities, she suggests, are where individual residents of the town find them. "You base your priorities on where you live," she says. "I think the town has never had a town-wide master plan for sidewalks. They never will have. That's why we decided to go the private article route...I don't know how they (Fincom) could read their own reports and not see the need for sidewalks in Ballardvale."

Richard Bowen also considers the Fincom disapproval a "put-down." When committee members suggested that "We can't afford to do it this year," he says, "I said, 'okay, when will you do it?' The silence was deafening."

As for a plea for town-wide planning, Bowen says that, during his tenure on the Board of Selectmen (1976-1979), he raised the issue of sidewalk repair in particular and long-range capital improvements in general. He was asked to develop a bylaw to establish a town-wide policy for capital improvements.

He did as he was asked. "The Finance Committee disapproved it," he says. "They said they'd do it without a bylaw." Bowen agreed to withdraw his proposal, and the town established capital improvements policy. "It existed for two or three years," he says, "Then it died."

So now, like Heller, Bowen feels it is time for Ballardvale residents to take their situation to Town Meeting, and to allow the assembly to vote on what he considers an issue of public safety that the town government refuses to confront. "Of course, if you stop to think about it," he adds wryly, "We could enact a bylaw to prohibit walking in Ballardvale."

than if we'd zoned it ID." The impact of Sheehy's proposal on the neighborhood would be severe, she concluded.

Roger Collins, a realtor who has been involved in the proposal, commented, "We tried to look at the site in that the town of Andover needs this kind of service." The area in question, he said, was one of the best places available as far as the potential impact of the proposed use.

Ultimately, the board decided to recommend to the ZBA that Sheehy combine the adjoining lots, to bring the total land parcel up to three acres, and consider building a smaller single-story building on the combined lot.

Tuesday night's scrutiny was not Gwen Hedrick's first discouraging experience in her quest to open a day care center. Approximately one year ago, she failed to get a ZBA special permit for a center proposed for Lowell Street and Wildrose Drive because of traffic and delivery-access problems.

More recently, Hedrick received a permit to locate her business on North Street. Neighbors militated against that proposal on the grounds that noise from the center would be a detriment to the area, so she dropped her plans.

This winter, Hedrick made an offer on the old K. of C. hall, but Gus Sheehy overbid her and acquired the building. Knowing of her desire to open a center, Sheehy approached her about leasing space in a building he planned to construct.

Hedrick admitted that the Planning Board's reaction to her proposal disturbed her. She said she couldn't understand the objection to housing 150 children on the site, considering that "at the end of the street, you have 10,000 employees of Raytheon."

Hedrick has lived in Andover for 27 years, and feels that the town has a distinct need for "a qualified program led by someone who really cares about the children." However, although she has received a high degree of positive feedback on her day care concept—and although she already has a waiting list of children whose parents wish to enroll them in a September session—Hedrick says that she will probably not make a fourth attempt at opening a center if her present plans do not come through. "I've been at this now for two years," she said. "It would be obvious to me that Andover is not concerned enough to let anybody in."

the ridge pole of the village gift shop was protruding above the newly-formed lake.

The original Red Cross relief fund quota of $250 in Andover has been increased to at least $375. Secretary Frank P. Markey received a wire last week from headquarters setting the quota at $250, and Wednesday morning he received another asking at least a 50 percent increase because of the new emergencies.

25 Years Ago — March 1960

An important meeting of Raytheon Co. management and town officials is scheduled for this noon at the Lanam Club. The company has refrained from releasing any details of the meeting except to say that the discussion is important to Andover. However, rumors have been circulated in the past few weeks that the company will soon negotiate an agreement to purchase the former Shawshen Mills, which has been leased since Raytheon came here.

The gymnastic team from the high school took second place in the state-wide championship held at Wilbraham last Saturday. The local team captured 87 points, while Wilbraham took 140 to win the title. Third was Wellesley with 78.

The future of the Indian Ridge Country Club may be decided in about a week after all members of The Club have the opportunity to vote a plan of reorganization.

A committee will be appointed to study the salary and expense items for elected and appointed town officials, following a vote of town meeting March 22.

Miss Marjorie Ellen Mazel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Mazel, 46 York St., has been named copy editor of the "Sophian," the bi-weekly newspaper at Smith College. Miss Mazel, a member of the freshman class, attended Andover High School.

10 Years Ago — March 1976

The "Cherry Sheets" were as welcome as spring this week at town hall, when it was found that Andover, unlike many communities, had fared pretty well and taxpayers can look forward to some relief.

A surprisingly low voter turn-out produced a history making school committee decision which could result in the first recount under Andover's new computer balloting system. Joseph Finn was elected to one of two seats open on the School Committee by two votes over Casimir Kolasnik, after the 5,391 ballots had been tabulated.

Andover officials will attempt to have an April 1 deadline for exercising options on the Andover Street post office site either postponed or cancelled at a meeting Monday morning at the State House.

Midgets Outplay Canadians On Weekend

The Andover Midgets played host to the Lachine, Canada, Midgets last weekend. Andover outplayed the Canadians and won both contests. On Friday, Andover jumped to a 1-0 lead. Chris Patten got the goal on a nice feed from Matt Alden. Lachine scored a goal to tie the score. Steve Donovan scored an unassisted goal, the first of his three-goal hat trick, to give Andover a 2-1 lead. John Gangi scored a goal on a nice pass from Steve Donovan before the first period ended. Chuck Babineau, Chris Lawson and Joey Boucher played some physical hockey at the beginning of the second period. Andover went up 4-1 when Steve Donovan scored again. John Gangi was credited with the assist. A few minutes later Lachine scored. Chris Lawson scored an unassisted goal after the face off to give Andover the 5-2 lead entering the third period. At this point, Bubba Smith demonstrated his unique skating ability. Lachine got a goal with 11 seconds left in the game to bring the score to 6-3. The Andover defense of Rob Moody, Mike Moriarty, Jeff Kittleson, Kyle McCabe and Dan Hegarty repeatedly knocked the Canadians off the puck. The few quality shot the Canadians had were effectively handled by goaltenders Chris Hansberry and Tim Smith.

Andover defeated Lachine 4-2 in Saturday's game. Andover led 2-1 after the first period as Donovan scored two goals. Gangi and Greg Kinsky picked up assists. In the second period Kinsky scored and the lead increased to 3-1. Donovan assisted. In the third period Gangi scored an unassisted goal. Lachine scored late in the period to bring the final score to 4-2. Sean Lambert, Tom Herling and Smith played fine two-way hockey. The Lachine team was undefeated prior to their Andover visit and are the Class C Canadian champions. Andover will travel to Lachine, Canada, on April 4 to play a two-game set with the Canadians.

Morris Leads Pee Wees Past Canadians

Jim Morris scored five goals in two games as the Pee Wee A team defeated Lachine, Quebec, 4-3 and 6-3 during a highly-successful exchange weekend. The Andover players welcomed the Canadian boys into their homes as part of an Andover Hockey Association cultural, educational and hockey exchange program. The Andover boys and their families will travel to Lachine the weekend of April 4, 5 and 6.

In Saturday's game, Morris notched a hat trick, while Chris Pothier scored the fourth goal.

Frank Morey, Ed Thistle and Todd Allard picked up assists. The Lachine boys came on strong in the third period and only great goaltending by Mike Murnane saved the game for Andover.

On Sunday, Pothier started the scoring early in the first period. Gary Bleszinski followed with a beautiful goal in a nice feed from Allard. Lachine lit the lamp to open the second period, narrowing the gap to 2-1. Morris then finished off a nice play by Sean Darwin and Allard to stretch the score to 3-1. Lachine countered with another goal, but Darwin beat the buzzer ending the second period, making the tally 4-2. Morris and Mike Ristuccia were credited with assists. Lachine pulled to within one early in the third period, but Morris and Donnie Fraser scored unanswered goals to make the final score 6-3.

Murnane had another super game in goal and Chris Cashman was fearless on defense to make this a total team effort.

Hope Dims For Cheerleading

It appears that 60 junior cheerleaders will be without a program for the 1986 season. Bobby-Jo Morris, who retired last November, has had little response to repeated efforts to find adult volunteers to take over the program.

Junior cheerleading, which is a part of the Andover Junior Football League, provides an opportunity for youngsters from 10-13 years of age to try cheerleading in a non-competitive setting. Many junior cheerleaders have gone on to junior high and high school squads and some have come back to coach the younger athletes.

Mrs. Morris has divided the responsibilities of the program into several parts to facilitate the transition to a new leadership. Included are director, registration, coaching supervisor, equipment manager, spring practice supervisor, fall season supervisor and competition.

If there is enough interest, an organizational meeting will be held April 2. Contact Mrs. Morris, 6 Russett Lane, for details.

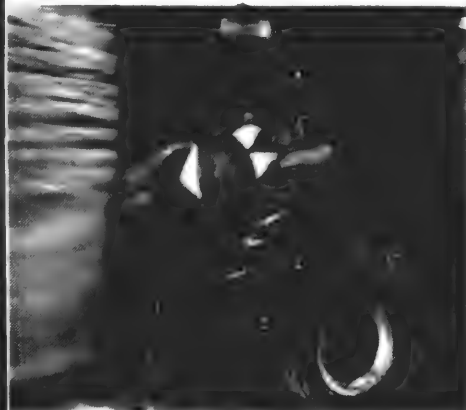

Elected

Six new members have been elected to the board of trustees at Bradford College: K. Patricia Cross, Barbara Beard King, Peter McSpadden, Elizabeth Hall Reid, Karen M. Sughrue and Louise Brand Williams.

The Sport Shop Suits Up for SpringYou've seen them before, the grey sweat pants with "Boston" or "Harvard" printed in big, bold letters down the leg.Well, move over, Boston and Harvard. Andover's here—at the Sport Shop, 92A Main St. In Andover, of course.Classy, huh? Well, The Sport Shop sells quite an inventory of spring casual wear—the latest in sport jackets, running gear, sneakers and sport shoes. But fashion's not the only thing the little downtown store sells; the Sport Shop also sells the functional. It can suit you—or your team—up for just about any sport the spring has to offer.If baseball, softball or soccer is your game, Fred Teichert and his sons have everything from uniforms to bats and gloves, right down to the shoes.

Do you play lacrosse? Check out the gear at The Sport Shop.The Sport Shop just got in a big spring shipment of Nike casual and sport shoes, including the top of the line for the lonely long-distance runner. And the easy rider can rent a bike or buy a terrific 10- or 12-speed at their downstairs bike shop. Or tune up an old faithful machine for spring—complete with cleaning and gear and brake adjustments—at the bargain price of $14.99.The Sport Shop also deals in smaller wheels. You can buy a complete skateboard, or the shop's pros can help you build a custom job from their bank of supplies and accessories.Spring brings out that competitive streak in a tennis buff; TheSport Shop helps you charge the net in style with a brand new Head, Prince, Yonex, Wilson, Donnay, Wimbledon, Yamaha or Pro Kennex. Or, for the adventurous, there's the new MacGregor Bergelin Long String—a revolutionary concept in tennis that gives you an all-over sweet spot and allows you to adjust your racquet tension yourself to fit your style of play. Whatever the racquet, the Teicherts offer you a demo to try before you buy.The Sport Shop can also outfit you in other sports—from fishing to whiffle ball. And, to top it off, they'll process the color prints of the team in action with their one-hour Kis system. To find out what they can do to bring your spring to life, call 475-7176.

Kim Steinke (L) of The Diet Center gives Nancy Young the good news of the day.
When You Finally Decide, Call The Diet Center

Nancy Young of Methuen has ample reason to smile.

Last fall, Young took a good, long look at herself—and decided it was time to change her life.

"In high school," she says, "I really wasn't overweight. But my weight crept up year after year; I didn't pay any attention to how big I was getting." Over the years, she tried to diet away the extra pounds, but what she lost always came back. "I never was a good dieter," she says.

Last fall, Young decided that she couldn't do it by herself. In mid-October, she joined The Diet Center of North Andover.

Now, five months later, the scales at the Center show that she has lost 47 pounds.

Young grins. "I feel excellent—very energetic." At her workplace, the Lawrence Savings Bank in the Methuen Mall, "The people who come in tell me, 'Oh, you look so good!' That really peps me up, too."

Young has nothing but praise for The Diet Center. "It offers good counseling," she says. "It helps me report to myself, not only them. And all the foods you eat are very nutritious—it's not like others, where you have to eat their food."

Young's success has encouraged friends to sign up with The Diet Center. "My sister is joining, too," she adds.

According to manager Kim Steinke, who has lost and kept off 50 pounds herself, The Diet Center will help Young keep her weight off when she reaches her goal—less than five pounds from now. It will provide stabilization and maintenance, teaching Young how to satisfy her hunger, her discerning tastes, and her nutritional needs with foods she can buy in the supermarket.

The Diet Center offers weekly, three-week and six-week renewable plans. It is open to men, women and teenagers, even dieters with particular medical problems (in these cases, Steinke works directly with the client's physician). Located at 451 Andover St.—where it just moved upstairs to suite 104 on the first floor—The Diet Center is open 7:30 a.m. to 1:30 and 3:30 to 5 M-F; Sat 9-11. Call 685-0508 when you finally decide it's time to change your life.

ment, training in several software packages, student projects and case studies and visits from professionals who routinely use computers in the workplace.

The result of the courses would be that students would understand what a computer is, and how it processes data to produce information, know through first hand experience, how the computer can solve personal, business and scientific problems. In addition, students would be able to recognize and articulate problems that can be solved with the aid of computer technology, know how to assess, manipulate and store information and demonstrate an understanding of the social issues facing society with respect to computers and information processing, according to Birnbach.

Birnbach objected to the fact that a concrete plan for the direction of the computer needs assessment was promised to be completed for proposal by February, by the school administration.

"Right now, I could produce needs over $200,000 but $75,000 is all that is available," Supt. Kenneth Seifert informed Birnbach. "We don't have the funds for the meat and potatoes proposals such as curriculum and staff development. I don't argue with any of the points you're making. We will present a proposal for computer education and instruction strategies. The $75,000 is just to hold the line. We all feel the same sense of urgency."

Parents are being very vocal about the purchase of computer equipment going towards educational purposes versus administration and business use, according to School Committee member Susan Poore.

"I think these are valid concerns and they will be talked about, if not here than on the floor of town meeting," Poore said.

School Committeeman Richard Neal expressed disappointment that the proposed funding was not educationally oriented.

"It is long overdue and there are a large number of communities that are well advanced over Andover. It is a prime area that needs attention. But, it isn't our position to suggest courses that need to be implemented, this is an area that should be under the school administration. We should examine the course catalogs and see what is being offered at our schools and what we are supporting."

Supt. Seifert proposed that movement to implement a suggested plan will be forthcoming in the spring.

"$75,000 is not enough. We have to ask ourselves are we really interested in modernizing," Seifert said.

School Committee Chairman Michael Giammusso suggested that the school administration begin a course of action immediately following town meeting.

Article 34 will request $75,000 for computer equipment within the school department. Further decisions as to how the school department and administration will use the funds will follow town meeting and be as flexible as possible, according to Giammusso.

ment, training in several software packages, student projects and case studies and visits from professionals who routinely use computers in the workplace.

The result of the courses would be that students would understand what a computer is, and how it processes data to produce information, know through first hand experience, how the computer can solve personal, business and scientific problems. In addition, students would be able to recognize and articulate problems that can be solved with the aid of computer technology, know how to assess, manipulate and store information and demonstrate an understanding of the social issues facing society with respect to computers and information processing, according to Birnbach.

Birnbach objected to the fact that a concrete plan for the direction of the computer needs assessment was promised to be completed for proposal by February, by the school administration.

"Right now, I could produce needs over $200,000 but $75,000 is all that is available," Supt. Kenneth Seifert informed Birnbach. "We don't have the funds for the meat and potatoes proposals such as curriculum and staff development. I don't argue with any of the points you're making. We will present a proposal for computer education and instruction strategies. The $75,000 is just to hold the line. We all feel the same sense of urgency."

Parents are being very vocal about the purchase of computer equipment going towards educational purposes versus administration and business use, according to School Committee member Susan Poore.

"I think these are valid concerns and they will be talked about, if not here than on the floor of town meeting," Poore said.

School Committeeman Richard Neal expressed disappointment that the proposed funding was not educationally oriented.

"It is long overdue and there are a large number of communities that are well advanced over Andover. It is a prime area that needs attention. But, it isn't our position to suggest courses that need to be implemented, this is an area that should be under the school administration. We should examine the course catalogs and see what is being offered at our schools and what we are supporting."

Supt. Seifert proposed that movement to implement a suggested plan will be forthcoming in the spring.

"$75,000 is not enough. We have to ask ourselves are we really interested in modernizing," Seifert said.

School Committee Chairman Michael Giammusso suggested that the school administration begin a course of action immediately following town meeting.

Article 34 will request $75,000 for computer equipment within the school department. Further decisions as to how the school department and administration will use the funds will follow town meeting and be as flexible as possible, according to Giammusso.

PRIVATE ZONING

Nearly everyone is familiar with zoning laws imposed by the government. Did you know that real estate can also be subject to "private zoning"?

Often real estate developers write a document containing conditions called restrictive covenants. This document is filed with the office where deeds are recorded, and thus becomes a public record. These restrictive covenants impose limitations on the use of all the property within the subdivision or other development.

Common restrictive covenants include a minimum or maximum of square feet in any house built in the subdivision, prohibitions against out-buildings such as storage sheds, a limitation on the number of stories of buildings, and clauses either requiring, regulating, or prohibiting certain types of fences.

Generally, restrictive covenants are designed to benefit property owners. However, there may be a restrictive covenant preventing you from using the property as you would like. Before buying property, consult your Realtor.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 4 Pouchard Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

REAL ESTATE GUIDELINES

By Laurel Moynihan
Realty U.S.A.
Schruender Real Estate

WHO DOES THE REALTOR REPRESENT?

In most residential real estate transactions, the Realtor represents the seller. Does this mean that you should not work with an agent when you look for your next home? Not at all!

Realtors help people sell their homes and help other people find new homes. In this matchmaking process, Realtors have a fiduciary obligation to their sellers, but are also obligated by their code of ethics to treat buyers fairly. They must give you accurate information about the properties they show you, and they're held accountable to buyers by their own Board of Realtors as well as State licensing agencies and the courts.

Perhaps the strongest accountability is in the marketplace. In this business, reputation is crucial, and referrals from past customers are essential for a Realtor to remain in business! This provides the strongest incentive for Realtors to get you and your family moved into a home that you love at a price you can afford and under conditions that will make you and the seller feel terrific about the transaction.

If there's a move in your future, call the professionals at Realty USA, Schruender Real Estate. Our number is 685-5000 or just drop by our office at 73 Chickering Road, North Andover. We're happy to serve all your real estate needs.

Town Hall Renovation Plan Gets A Grudging Approval

By Susan K. O'Neill

The Planning Board gave their grudging support on Tuesday night to a warrant article requesting $150,000 for design and engineering studies which would lead to the renovation of the Old Town Hall, but they voted against a companion article which would authorize rental of the downstairs to specific governmental or non-profit tenants.

"I hate to see it sit another year," said

Contest Deadline April 18

The Andover senior center is sponsoring a print contest to honor elderly citizens in the Greater Lawrence area. Anyone, young or old, may contribute photographs, black and white or colored, up to three in number. They must be brought to the senior center, Whittier Street extension, by 4:30 p.m. on April 18. (The contest has been extended because of so many vacation days prior to the previous deadline.)

The only requirements are: the print must contain a picture of at least one elderly person and the size of the print cannot exceed 16"x20."

board member Michael Houghton of the hall, adding that he was still not in favor of plans to use the second floor as an auditorium. He noted that the money would cover planning, but not construction, and said, "My feeling is, we should get this started, but take a long, hard look with a lot of people at the use before construction."

Agreed Paul Curley, "I would support a design effort to get the exterior started and bring the building up to codes."

As the sole opponent in the final 3-1 vote (Andrew Girdwood was not present at the meeting), chairman Margaret Bradshaw said that she still did not feel that she knew enough about the planned renovation to support the appropriation. "I regret sitting here and not voting for this," she said, but added that she felt that any developer could have come to town, taken a look at the empty building, and put clear plans together for its use in a relatively short time. "I don't feel that the town has that," she said. "The discussion should have come before this."

The board's vote on the second article, which would have authorized the selectmen to lease space in the hall to "AVIS, Andover Historical Society, Andover Federal Credit Union, or other non-profit or governmental agencies or groups", was one of unanimous disapproval.

Other articles considered on Tuesday night were:

- the appropriation of funds for building of sidewalks in Ballardvale (4-0 disapproval);

- conservation commission land acquisition articles (4-0 approval);

- betterment of Fosters Pond Road (4-0 approval);

- funding for fire communications equipment (4-0 approval);

- reconsideration of acceptance of Whispering Pines Drive (4-0 disapproval);

- lifting of regulations on size of boat motors on Fosters Pond (3-1, Curley opposed, to take no position);

- funding for engineering studies of possible connection of Burt Road with Ballardvale Road (4-0 approval).
